A FEW WORDS FROM YOURS TRULY

As I write this little piece, the fall season's already started – and it definitely won't be long until the warm weather associated with both Spring and Summer gives way to the cold and frigid type which, up to almost five years ago, I viewed with great disdain (especially when I had to shovel my former home's driveway on snow days during the winter months). Amazing how, at least, that some things in my life have definitely changed for the better, and are a bit easier to take.

Fortunately, my creative career isn't stuck in a rut – thanks in part to the fact that I've now got a bit more breathing space, as far as my schedule's concerned. Just to let you know, I'm still working on my current novel, THE JANUS TERROR, which I'm hoping to finish and get published in time for Christmas. And I haven't neglected the other aspects of my creative career – among them, BEYOND THE UNKNOWN (and you can check out the BTU section in this issue to learn more about what's happening with it, both now and in the future).

But that's not all. Already, in my ever-fertile mind, I'm laying down the groundwork, and not just for future books, but also articles, short stories, lithographs – and yes, film and TV scripts (*including working on a revision of the screen adaptation for CODE NAME: CHAMELEONS, which I hope to focus on shortly after I'm done writing THE JANUS TERROR).

As usual, I hope you enjoy perusing the latest issue of LAVERNOICH'S LOUNGE – which'll (hopefully) encourage you to actually purchase some of my creative wares, which is one of the purposes behind my newsletter. All the more reason to support independent talents like myself – and another reason to stop supporting Reality TV programs which aren't worth watching at all (and especially if they end up catapulting one of its stars into the White House).
