A FEW WORDS FROM YOURS TRULY

As I write this – this Thanksgiving weekend’s ending with a snow storm that’s already affecting most of the American East Coast. Which – in some cases – can be a good thing, since Christmas and New Year’s isn’t far behind.

Already, I’m looking forward to many things as Christmas approaches – including finishing writing and getting published my next book, THE JANUS TERROR, which is partly profiled in the Book Bungalow section of this very issue. Of course, THE JANUS TERROR’s not the only creative project on my mind – for those of you who’ve actually followed my creative careers for so long, some of which I hope to strongly stress in this very issue (and elsewhere on the Internet).

Though this decade’s ending on a low note – which should teach many of you who voted in the last U.S. Presidential election never to vote any egotistic Reality TV personalities into political office – I have high hopes for the next decade, in which us Americans’ll elect an U.S. President who can really make America great again (and let’s hope it’s not Jeff Probst).

As usual, I hope that you enjoy this issue of LAVERNOICH’S LOUNGE – and I hope you can check out and purchase my creative offerings, all of them making great holiday gifts. Until next month (when – God willing – our country’s really on the upswing) – HAPPY HOLIDAYS and HAPPY NEW YEAR.
