A FEW WORDS FROM YOURS TRULY

I really do think that any deep crisis is an opportunity to make your life extraordinary in some way.

-- Martha Beck

Plot twists have long been a staple of great stories throughout recorded history. But no matter how entertaining the plot twists associated with popular fiction are – they pale in comparison to the real-life twists of fate that catch us off-guard, many of them less pleasant than we'd care to admit, and which we can't ignore and forget.

The COVID-19 situation which now grips much of the world is an example of what fate and circumstances unexpectedly hurls at us – not only changes our lives forever, but also forces us to face reality and regret not taking immediate action to prevent things from getting much worse. Then again, even if the majority of us could peer into the future or head back to the past to alter history – would it really make our combined situation much better?

Still, all of us must move forward with our lives, not knowing what the outcome of this crisis will be – while at the same time, we know that we shouldn't give up all hope that things will get better, and that ultimately, we – not fear and uncertainty – decide what the future will truly be, perhaps more amazing and unexpected than anything that a storyteller could conceive.
