A FEW WORDS FROM YOURS TRULY

Well – there's still hope for this present decade.

As I write this, this year's U.S. Presidential election has already ended – and hopefully, the beginning of the end for a four year-long nightmare which never should have happened to begin with. Then again, anyone who thought that a certain Reality TV personality would make a great U.S. President – was no doubt living in Fantasyland (and that's definitely no compliment).

As we near the end of 2020 – and not just with the Christmas holiday season fast approaching – we know that times are already tough, as those who've kept up with the news reports can easily tell you. And sugar-coating the truth and seeing things through rose-colored glasses are – at least, that's what many are hoping – becoming as outdated as every concept throughout history which has long since worn out its welcome (including Reality TV, which I hope ends up consigned to permanent oblivion).

As a writer/author – I can't totally predict that things will get better rapidly, and not just in the U.S.; even someone like myself who's written prose fiction knows better than to face the future without employing both caution and common sense. On the other hand, having both hope and faith – and not just in those we've elected into public office – are essential to the better and brighter future that all of us want, so long as we never forget that the good and noble traits that we already possess continue to help keep us heading on the right path. And after the year that we've just experienced – I hope that those same traits never go out of style.

AND THEY MAKE GREAT HOLIDAY GIFTS -- IN CASE YOU'RE INTERESTED

WE'LL HEAD TO THE MEDIA MANSON SECTION
OF THIS NEWSLETTER SHORTLY -- BUT FIRST, HERE'S THE LATEST ADDITION TO LAVERNOICH'S LOUNGE --!

COMIC BOOK COTTAGE

Dealing with – what else? – comic books!

This trio of illustrations is tied to still another creative project of mine which will become a reality – and soon: THE PARADOX PUZZLE! For those of you who've listened to recent episodes of the BEYOND THE UNKNOWN Audio Podcast (the links to where you can listen to it'll be located in the MEDIA MANSION section of this issue) – this was supposed to be the story which kicked off the possible BTU comic book, until circumstances too numerous to explain put it on hold.

HOWEVER --!

By year's end – you'll be able to own your copy of THE PARADOX PUZZLE as a one-shot comic book – in both print and digital formats! (And yes – I'm still working out the details and logistics of it – which'll be explained in the next episodes of both the BTU and CHAMELEONS, INC. Audio Podcasts, and elsewhere!) It's a story you'll never forget – in more ways than one!

And as for the future of my PATREON page – more news concerning that all over the Internet soon (including – where else? – my audio podcasts)!

AND FINALLY --! ⬇
